

Sally Norton

Books

Sally has just written a humorous book for Penguin (Viking) – '101 Things To Do Before You're Five' will be published early 2010. Her title 'The Girls' Book Of Glamour' (Michael O'Mara) sold nearly 100,000 copies and was in the bestseller lists for 16 weeks in 2008. She has recently had another book published - 'The Girls' Book 2 – How To Be The Best At Everything' (Michael O' Mara).

TV Scripts

Sally has had ten episodes of BBC lunchtime drama 'Doctors' broadcast. Has written several original scripts, including 'Failure To Thrive', 'Song Of Silence', 'Flashgun Warrior' and 'Bloodlines.'

Magazines

After a staff job on Woman's Own, Sally has written for dozens of magazines - from Marie Claire to Woman's Weekly, Zest to Best. During her time on Woman's Own she won the prestigious Special Features Writer Award at the IPC Editorial Awards.

Copywriting

Sally has worked with leading PR agencies, copywriting on projects and campaigns for companies including Nivea, Persil, Helena Rubinstein, Rimmel London and Kerry Foods. She has recently worked with marketing company Forster on a social project for the Department for Children, Schools and Families.

EDUCATION

After studying Classics at Durham University, Sally gained a postgraduate diploma in Journalism Studies at University College, Cardiff. She's married with a young daughter.

Agent: Jane Villiers